Bill Gates: Part 1

Bill Gates and his father are Eugenacists, point blank period. Many people only know what Eugenics is due to the education we were given about the Nazi's, and Hitler, and how they believed that society was only fit for the "master race" of White Aryans. Now, this post is not about Hitler, the Nazi's, the Holocaust, or World War II, so please... spare me any comments relating to these topics because I know that many of the things we were taught.. were not how things actually went down. That topic is a post for another day, so bear with me here. Because the topic of Eugenics was purposely covered up and deflected in the direction of Hitler, many people did not, and still don't know that the Eugenics movement was not only popular in the Third Reich, but Eugenics was very popular between White, elite members of society right here in (north) America. As a matter of fact... THE ENTIRE EUGENICIST MOVEMENT WAS BEING SECRETLY RUN FROM THE UNITED STATES DURING WW2. This is an aspect of history purposely left out of the history books, and this was done on purpose to protect some of the most fucked up people in history from public awareness. It's also important to note that Bill is related to the Rockefeller family through his mother.

The first thing you need to learn is that back in 1902 John D. Rockefeller created the general education board in conjunction with Frederick T Gates (no relation to Bill). Prior to the 1890's and early 1900's, education was a private practice that took place in private institutions or through home schooling. The general education board was responsible for funding the American public-school system and provided over one hundred million dollars in 1902. The general education board was responsible for the creation of the American public-school system we all know today. The reason Rockefeller created the general education board, was to begin manipulating the consciousness of human beings. Meaning, they wanted to step in to ensure children of the time were influenced by a version of history that would paint Rockefeller, his associates, and others who took control of this country by way of fucked up schemes... as the good guys. Rockefeller and others close to him would later be known as "The Men who Built America." It was also created to influence the way a human being perceives the environment around them.

In order to implement this system, teachers need to teach, and somebody needed to regulate this information before it was taught to students. This was the birth of "district wide" and "Statewide" approved curriculum's, which became a requirement for teachers, not an option.

The below is a quote from Fredrick T. Gates (no relation to Bill). After you read this quote, you will understand why these crooks omitted the truth about themselves from all educational curriculum's, and painted themselves as "Pioneers of Industry" who, thanks to them, built America into the amazing country it is today...

"In our dream we have limitless resources, and the people yield themselves with perfect docility to our molding hand. The present educational conventions fade from our minds; and, unhampered by tradition, we work our own good will upon a grateful and responsive rural folk. We shall not try to make these people or any of their children into philosophers or men of learning or of science. We are not to raise up among them authors, orators, poets, or men of letters. We shall not search for embryo great artists, painters, musicians. Nor will we cherish even the humbler ambition to raise up from among them lawyers, doctors, preachers, statesmen, of whom we now have ample supply."

- Rev. Frederick T. Gates, Business Advisor to John D. Rockefeller Sr., 1913

The General Education Board was not interested in encouraging critical thinking. It focused on things like organizing children and creating reliable, predictable, obedient citizens. As award-winning former teacher John Gatto puts it, "school was looked upon from the first part of the 20th Century as a branch of industry and a tool of governance." The Rockefeller's, along with other financial elite and their philanthropic organizations (such as the Gates, Carnegie's, and Vanderbilt's) have been able to mold society by funding and pushing compulsory state schooling for the masses.

Here's a timeline to show the insane shift in education and the influence of the financial elite:

Pre 1840: Literacy Rates High, Schools Predominantly Private and Locally Controlled up until the 1840's, the American school system was mainly private, decentralized, and home schooling was common. Americans were well educated, and literacy rates were high.

1852: Massachusetts Passes First Mandatory Attendance Law

1902: John D. Rockefeller Creates the General Education Board at the ultimate cost of $129 million, the General Education Board provided major funding for schools across the nation and was very influential in shaping the current school system.

1905: Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching is Founded

1906: NEA Becomes a Federally Chartered Association

1913: Frederick T. Gates, Director of Charity for the Rockefeller Foundation, Writes "In our dream...the people yield themselves with perfect docility to our molding hand"

1914: National Education Association (NEA) Alarmed by the Activity of the Carnegie and Rockefeller Foundations

At an annual meeting in St. Paul Minnesota, a resolution was passed by the Normal School Section of the NEA. An excerpt stated:

"We view with alarm the activity of the Carnegie and Rockefeller Foundations—agencies not in any way responsible to the people—in their efforts to control the policies of our State educational institutions, to fashion after their conception and to standardize our courses of study, and to surround the institutions with conditions which menace true academic freedom and defeat the primary purpose of democracy as heretofore preserved inviolate in our common schools, normal schools, and universities."

1917: NEA Reorganizes and Moves to Washington DC

The NEA is the largest labor union in the U.S., representing public school teachers and other school faculty and staff. It generally opposes merit pay, school vouchers, accountability reforms, and more.

1918: Every State Requires Students to Complete Elementary School

1932: "Eight Year Study" – Largely funded by Carnegie Corporation of New York and the General Education Board

This laid the groundwork for education reform and the schooling system we have today.

1946: Rockefeller Foundation grants the General Education Board $7.5 billion

1953: Reece Committee of the US House of Representatives Reveals Agenda of Carnegie Endowment and Rockefeller Foundation on Education "It seems incredible that the trustees of typically American fortune-created foundations should have permitted them to be used to finance ideas and practices incompatible with the fundamental concepts of our Constitution. Yet there seems evidence that this may have occurred."

-Norman Dodd, Director of Research, Special Committee to Investigate Tax-Exempt Foundations, 1954

1968: Edith Roosevelt's Article "The Foundation Machine" Indicts Carnegie Funded Textbooks. Carnegie funded "Programmed Textbooks" were distributed to "culturally deprived areas." Edith Roosevelt stated that "these young children are being indoctrinated with a pattern of anti-social ideas that will completely and violently alienate them from the mainstream of American middle-class values."

1979: US Department of Education Created

1986: Carnegie Teaching Panel Charts New Teacher Framework & Provides $900,000 in Grants for Reforms

2003: 14% of American Adults are Illiterate The National Assessment of Adult Literacy (NAAL) administered tests which revealed 14% of US residents would have extreme difficulty with reading and written comprehension. In 2003, some 30 million American adults had Below Basic prose literacy, 27 million had Below Basic document literacy, and 46 million had Below Basic quantitative literacy.

All of the above information should paint the perfect picture in your mind. Now you can understand how they took over our lives.. and this is only touching on the educational aspect of their crimes against humanity. This doesn't even begin to touch on their coup against natural medicine or their other successful crimes that literally reshaped America and the rest of the world.

At the turn of the 20th century, American eugenicists were often political and social liberals, advocates of social reform and supporters of mainstream science. American eugenicists didn't seem like shady characters... but environmentalists, peace activists, fitness buffs, healthy-living / lifestyle enthusiasts, inventors and family men... who saw a mission for a "better gene pool" as a facet of their bigger dream of human advancement."

Here are a few well known advocates and obsessive supporters of American Eugenics from the early 1900's up until recent time:

- John D. Rockefeller
 - John D. Rockefeller Jr.
 - Cornelius Vanderbilt
 - JP Morgan
 - Andrew Carnegie
 - Henry Ford
 - Patrick Henry
 - Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.
 - Charles Darwin
 - Warren Buffet
 - Bill Gates II
 - Bill Gates III
 - Prescott Bush
 - George H.W. Bush
 - George W. Bush
 - David Rockefeller
 - Nelson Rockefeller
- etc.

In the early 1900's "financially elite" Americans, were "preoccupied by the imagined genetic threat of feeble-mindedness, a capaciously defined condition that was diagnosed using often flawed intelligence tests and by identifying symptoms such as moral degeneracy, an overactive sex drive, and other traits liberally ascribed to poor people (especially poor women) who were seen as having stepped out of line."

"Charles Darwin's theories gave a scientific veneer to the conclusion that many social ills were caused by the proliferation of the wrong sort of people and that they could be neatly nipped in the bud with the intervention of Eugenics—a term coined, in 1883, by Darwin's half-cousin Sir Francis Galton, who declared it "a virile (strong) creed, full of hopefulness.""

"Scientific American (magazine) ran articles on the subject, and the American Museum of Natural History hosted conferences. Theodore Roosevelt, Alexander Graham Bell, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and many other prominent citizens were outspoken supporters. Eugenics was taught in schools, celebrated in exhibits at the World's Fair, and even preached from pulpits (raised platforms used to deliver a speech or sermon). The human race, one prominent advocate declared in 1909, was poised "to dry up the springs that feed the torrent of defective and degenerate protoplasm (defined in 1835 as the ground substance of living material and, hence, responsible for all living processes).”

Between 1904 and 1921, the rate of institutionalization for feeble-mindedness nearly tripled, and this was done on purpose as a ploy to sterilize “inferior” women in society.

Dr. Albert Priddy was the first superintendent of “The Virginia State Colony for the Epileptics and Feeble Minded” which was founded in the first decade of the 20th century. The “Virginia Colony” was a state-run institution for those considered to be “Feeble minded” or those with severe mental impairment. The colony opened in 1910 near Lynchburg, Virginia in Madison Heights with the goal of isolating those with mental disabilities and other qualities deemed unfit for reproduction away from society. The colony was notably the home of Carrie Buck (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Carrie_Buck), the subject of the landmark Supreme Court case Buck v. Bell.

(https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Buck_v._Bell)

Dr. Priddy, was looking to transform his institution from a genetic quarantine center to a undercover Eugenics factory, where the “unfit” could be committed for a short time, sterilized, and then released, like fucking cats, back into the general population. The elite eugenicists loved this idea because it gave them the happy assurance that these inferior, feeble-minded women in America would never reproduce. Several states passed laws permitting eugenic sterilization in the early twentieth century. Virginia passed its law in 1924. The Supreme Court case Buck v. Bell, which, in an 8-1 decision, made forced sterilization for eugenic purposes legal in the United States. The journalist and lawyer Adam Cohen gave a detailed account of the many forces that came together to make sure the legal sterilization for eugenic purposes law passed. Cohen explains that Dr. Priddy, was a true believer in the pure-blooded future. Priddy began pushing for legislation permitting eugenic sterilizations after he was sued by a patient whom he’d sterilized without her consent. Dr. Priddy turned to a friend, a lawyer and politician named Aubrey Strode. Strode apparently wasn’t completely in favor of the cause, but he did his job, drafting the law, suggesting the test-case approach (the test strategy implementation of a project, defines how testing would be carried out), and representing the Virginia Colony in court. He argued the case before the Supreme Court, won, and then basically never mentioned it again.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was on the deciding panel in Bell Vs. Buck, and wrote the majority opinion (written by a justice selected by either the Chief Justice or if he or she is not in the majority, then the senior justice who voted with the majority) to make sterilization in the case of Eugenics.. legal. He was quoted on record during the hearings saying: “It is better for the world, if instead of waiting to execute degenerate offspring for crime, or to let them starve for their imbecility, society can prevent those who are manifestly unfit from continuing their kind.”

This is how elitist men would march their agendas forward, by way of bridges formed by social connections, whether it’s asking a friend to write one of them a law (yes... a fucking law) or recommended one of their friends for a position in the Supreme Court by a fellow “brother”. You see, although the general public knows none of this and calls out "CONSPIRACY THEORY" any time we try to explain how a group of elite individuals control the world and have much more power than any President (AKA CEO of The United States of America Corporation).

<https://www.alternet.org/.../how-cia-invented-and-promoted-.../...>

Thirty-two states passed eugenic-sterilization laws during the twentieth century, and between sixty and seventy thousand people were sterilized under them. The public propaganda that was being spread by way of these elites and their persuasive techniques, toned down after the U.S. went to war with Germany. Most American eugenicists abandoned their obvious praise of the Nazi project, and Eugenics in America faded away to an area of officially sanctioned research. But the sterilization rate remained high even after the Second World War.

Bill Gates' father, William H. Gates Sr., was the head of Eugenics group Planned Parenthood. Yes, Planned Parenthood at its core and since its inception was and still is (behind closed doors) a Eugenics group.

The Eugenics Movement was a potent political force in early 20th century America. However, its membership appeared much different to the public than Hitler and the SS soldiers AKA the Third Reich. One of the original members of the American Eugenics movement was (evil bitch) Margaret Sanger, founder of Planned Parenthood. Her obsessive support of eugenics as a means of achieving economic stability and improved public health was well-documented in her many essays and speeches.

<https://lifedynamics.com/library/...>

The Eugenics Movement faded to the background after World War II after the public was made aware of the Nazi holocaust. However, eugenics continues to have a strong and hidden influence on the modern-day activities (agendas) of Planned Parenthood, specifically relating to its relationship with African-Americans and other minorities. It also can be seen in the philanthropic activities of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. Their tactics for combating climate change and addressing global health issues would make Margaret Sanger proud.

Margaret Sanger's most successful endeavor toward the goal of eugenics, was what she called "The Negro Project." Trust me... this shit is fucked up but people need to learn the truth. The propaganda of The Negro Project was that birth control meant better health. So, on this premise, the Birth Control Federation of America (later named Planned Parenthood) designed two southern Negro Project "demonstration programs" to show "how medically-supervised birth control integrated into existing public health services could improve the general welfare of Blacks, and to initiate a nationwide educational program.

The Negro Project - Margaret Sanger's Eugenic Plan for Black America:

For The Negro Project to succeed, Sanger pushed the need to have influential black leaders and, especially, ministers, educated in the goals of the birth control movement. Sanger knew blacks were religious people (at the time) and how useful ministers would be to her project. She wrote, "The minister's work is also important, and he should be trained perhaps by the Federation as to our ideals and the goal that we hope to reach. We do not want word to get out that we want to exterminate the Negro population, and the minister is the man who can straighten out that idea if it ever occurs to any of their more rebellious members."

Backed by funding from the fucking Rockefeller Foundation, The Negro Project was a success. By 1949, Sanger had hoodwinked Black America's best and brightest into believing birth control's "life-saving benefits." The Black leadership of the time wanted to decrease maternal and infant mortality and improve the community's overall health. They accepted Sanger's message because it seemed to promise prosperity and social acceptance. But what the leaders of the Black community didn't realize was that aside from birth control, Sanger offered no other medical or social solutions to their adversity. Considering the role eugenics played in the early birth control movement... the idea of birth control as the only solution to the problems that plagued Blacks in America, should have been much more closely scrutinized. However, it's understandable how Sanger was able to use them and fool them into assisting her sinister plans.

<http://www.blackgenocide.org/negro.html...>

By the way "79 percent of Planned Parenthood's surgical abortion facilities are located in or within walking distance of predominately African-American and Latino communities."

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the hidden hand of Eugenics:

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has donated billions to the cause of improving global health, largely by sponsoring vaccine and agricultural programs in Third World countries. In an interview on the PBS program NOW with Bill Moyers.

http://www.pbs.org/now/transcript/transcript_gates.html...

Bill Gates responded:

"The two areas that are changing in this amazing way are information technology and medical technology. Those are the things that the world will be very different 20 years from now than it is today. I'm so excited about those advances. And they actually feed off of each other. The medical world uses the information tools to do their work. And so when you have those advances you think will they be available to everyone. The one issue that really grabbed me as urgent were issues related to population... reproductive health." Then he revealed that, for a time, his father, William H. Gates, Sr. was the head of Planned Parenthood.

Just like psycho Margaret Sanger, Bill Gates II believes in the eugenicist Thomas Malthus's idea that the sustainability of the world's resources is completely dependent upon maintaining population control. What's completely fucking ironic is that Gates believes that improving health care, primarily through vaccinations, will accomplish this. (LOL. Can you start to see where Bill's "billions invested to create 7 new covid vaccines" is starting to fit in?)

Gates went on to say:

"And maybe the most interesting thing I learned ... is that, as you improve health in a society, population growth goes down (when he says "improve health" he's implying that vaccines keep you healthy to ward off deadly viruses, but in reality he's saying "by using vaccines as a hidden means sterilization, we can ensure specific groups of people can't reproduce, which will lead to a decreased population") You know...before I learned about it, I thought it was paradoxical. Well if you improve health, aren't you just dooming people to deal with such a lack of resources where they won't be educated, or they won't have enough food? You know, sort of a Malthusian view of what would take place. And the fact is that health leads parents to decide, "okay, we don't need to have as many children because the chance of having the less children being able to survive to be adults and take care of us, means we don't have to have 7 or 8 children." Now that was amazing"

Gates emphasizes vaccination programs as the best way of combating Third World poverty. However, as with birth control and The Negro Project, this exclusive focus on vaccines has raised suspicion among the leadership in said countries. In 2014, the Kenyan Catholic Doctors Association and the Kenyan Catholic Bishops Conference doctors in Kenya directly accused UNICEF, the World Health Organization, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation of this atrocity after they discovered abortion drugs in the tetanus vaccine.

<https://www.globalresearch.ca/mass-sterilization-k.../5678295...>

There's a website called "Africacheck.org" who claim they "sort fact from fiction" in all issues and accusations over the continent of Africa. They are literally the African version of "Snopes". If you know the truth about Snopes over here in the USA, you already understand that their sole purpose is to protect elite individuals from exposure by using careful wording and doing whatever they can to call something "false." Africacheck has written two articles boasting that they've "debunked" the claims that were made that these organizations (including the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation) were offering free tetanus vaccines under the guise of MASS STERILIZATION, which ended up affecting millions of African women. Whats ironic, is that I've personally had people use these claims to call bullshit on the accusations, so I know how important websites like Africacheck are to eugenicists who are able to hide behind them.

I came to realize that Africacheck.org receives 18% of their annual budget directly from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. Of course, out of any website or media company all throughout Africa and the rest of the world, the website that ended up "debunking" these claims are being partially funded by Bill Gates himself. If that doesn't raise suspicions, I don't know what would. The B&MG Foundation have this website in their pocket, and this so-called debunking has fooled many people over the years.

According to Vactruth.com the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation went into Chad and vaccinated at least 50 children with a drug developed specifically for Africa called, "MenAfriVac." Within 24 hours, it was reported that the children, some of whom were as young as 7, developed hallucinations, convulsions and ultimately paralysis. I don't know about you, but these types of things literally make me feel sick to my stomach... to know that there are certain people out there who literally have no compassion for anyone or anything unless it has to do with their family, bloodline, or close associates. These people are fucking sick to say the least.

Bill Gates III and Paul Allen co-founded Microsoft on April 4, 1975 and grew the fledgling company into an $85 billion multi-national computer software business. Bill transitioned from CEO to CSA (Chief Software Architect) in 2000, the year he and wife, Melinda, established the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation (BMGF). Then in 2006 Bill backed off, becoming part-time at Microsoft and full-time at BMGF.

Three trustees guard The Gates Foundation: Bill Gates III, Melinda Gates, and Warren Buffett. Buffett (Chairman/President/CEO of $65B Berkshire Hathaway Inc.) is ranked as one of the world's wealthiest men (net worth of about $66 billion) and has vowed to disburse 99% of his fortune to charities and causes mostly via the Gates Foundation. One Buffett pet cause being the Democratic party; he endorsed Hillary Clinton in her run for president. You always hear people say: "Warren Buffett is such a good person; he's vowed to literally donate 99% of his fortune to CHARITY when he passes away." What people don't say is "He's going to donate 99% of his fortune when he passes away, most of which is going directly to The Gates Foundation so Buffett can sleep well at night knowing his fortune will continue funding undercover eugenics when he's gone.

2010: The Gates Foundation Invests 21 Million into Monsanto Shares

Back in 2010 The Gates Foundation purchased 500,000 shares Monsanto stock, worth $21.1 million dollars at the time. What kind of human being invests in a company that was the world's largest producer of genetically modified food, which has been tied to numerous health ailments such as sterility and infant mortality. In South Africa in 2009, Monsanto's genetically modified maize failed to produce kernels and hundreds of farmers were devastated. According to Mariam Mayet, environmental attorney and director of the Africa Centre for Biosafety in Johannesburg, some farmers suffered up to an 80% crop failure. While Monsanto compensated the large-scale farmers to whom it directly sold the faulty product, it gave nothing to the small-scale farmers to whom it had handed out free sachets of seeds. "When the economic power of Gates is coupled with the irresponsibility of Monsanto, the outlook for African smallholders is not very promising," said Mayet. Monsanto's aggressive patenting practices have also monopolized control over seed in ways that deny farmers control over their own harvest, going so far as to sue-and bankrupt-farmers for "patent infringement." Monsanto was declared company of the year by Forbes magazine in 2009, despite its history of agricultural abuses. Monsanto has also been accused of dumping toxic waste in residential areas, resulting in a variety of severe health disorders.

<https://naturalsociety.com/genetically-modified-foods/...>

"The [Gates] Foundation's direct investment in Monsanto is problematic on two primary levels," said Dr. Phil Bereano, University of Washington Professor Emeritus and recognized expert on genetic engineering. "First, Monsanto has a history of blatant disregard for the interests and well-being of small farmers around the world, as well as an appalling environmental track record. The strong connections to Monsanto cast serious doubt on the Foundation's heavy funding of agricultural development in Africa and purported goal of alleviating poverty and hunger among small-scale farmers. Second, this investment represents an enormous conflict of interests."

Monsanto was also famous for their poisonous, cancer causing product Roundup Weed Killer. "Roundup (glyphosate) weed killer is designated as a probable human carcinogen by the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC), an arm of the World Health Organization (WHO). Farmers, farm workers, landscapers, gardeners, and others who use Roundup weed killer or other glyphosate-based herbicides are at risk for developing non-Hodgkin lymphoma and other forms of cancer." Roundup has been the sole cause of the rise of gluten intolerance, which is actually "glyphosate intolerance" which is caused by eating foods that have been tainted by Roundup while being grown.

In August of 2018, Robert Kennedy Jr. won a historic $290 million dollar case against Monsanto and Roundup weed-(people)killer. See information about his victory here. Many victims who were faces with the prospect of paying massive medical bills and losing wages due to a cancer diagnosis, consumers from across the United States who were exposed to Roundup are making the decision to file a Roundup cancer lawsuit against Monsanto.

<https://www.irishcentral.com/.../robert-f-kennedy-case-monsan...>

September 2016:

So now, we have one of the most scandalous companies in history, purchased by pain killer giant "Bayer", most known for their popular product Advil . For those who are unaware and haven't spent time going deep down this rabbit hole, Bayer has a mostly unknown history with Nazi Germany. Bayer was created as an independent company, but by the 1930s were a part of the company IG Farben, a conglomerate formed by several major chemical companies in Germany. And as a German chemical corporation in the Nazi regime, IG Farben committed a long list of atrocities. IG Farben worked closely with the Nazi government and military to capture chemical factories in the nation so they could be used by the corporation.

<https://www.scientificamerican.com/.../bayer-to-buy-monsant.../...>

<https://www.nydailynews.com/.../bayer-nazi-role-article-1.701...>

IG Farben was also the company that developed the Zyklon B gas that was used in Nazi death camps to kill Jews and other "undesirables." Furthermore, IG Farben relied on concentration camp slave labor throughout World War II and the Holocaust. They built a factory next door to the infamous Auschwitz concentration camp and would use the prisoners at the camp for slave work. IG Farben employees frequently told their slave laborers that, "If you don't work faster, you'll be gassed. At the end of the war, IG Farben was dissolved, and the directors of the company were put on trial for war crimes.

Although 13 of the 24 company directors arraigned were convicted of war crimes, all of these Nazi collaborators received early release, and most of them were reinstated as directors of the new corporations created out of the dissolution of IG Farben. Fritz ter Meer, who directed operations at the IG Farben plant at Auschwitz, became the president of Bayer after the war.

Now looking at the above, The Gates Foundation invested 21 million to buy 500k shares of Monsanto, while fully understanding the harm they were causing around the world. Do you honestly think it's a coincidence, that The Gates Foundation bought into a company with ties to numerous health ailments such as sterility and infant mortality? It's no coincidence that Gates wanted to invest in a company that he resonated with, and that resonated with the underlying mission of Eugenics that The Gates Foundation uses all of their resources to push. They continue to honor Margaret Sanger's legacy and vision of a world where minorities and people that possess specific blood types tied to certain haplogroups, are [at the very least] prevented from reproducing children that sicken Bill and his fucked up family.

Then, we have another so called coincidence, which is that Monsanto was purchased by Bayer, who on a public level are just a harmless company helping rid the public of annoying headaches for decades, but in reality... they were [are] a company that was part of IG Farben, the giant that manufactured the Zyklon B gas that was used in Nazi death camps to murder Jews and undesirables. YOU LITERALLY CAN'T MAKE THIS SHIT UP.

I would really appreciate it if anyone reading this could refrain from talking about the Holocaust on this post, because it's not the topic I'm covering. Many people are unaware of the hidden truth behind it. The death numbers provided to the world were heavily manipulated and increased to heighten the shock value the world would experience when learning about this atrocity. It is still a complete atrocity even if the quoted number of people didn't actually die, because it's fact that hundreds of thousands of people were killed. The last thing I will say about the Holocaust is this: The Global Elites used this atrocity as an excuse to steal most of Palestine back for themselves. The Holocaust lead to the "Balfour Declaration" which solidified the birth of Israel.
